LONDON LETTER.

(From our Correspondent.)

LONDON, December 15.
Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman may be congratulated on his cabinet. Nearly every one of them is a man who has already made his mark. The outgoing government included many nonentities as a result of hasty changes within the last two years and represented a minority of the party. Of the present list most of the names are those of men whom the average elector frankly admires and the others are those of men whom he as frankly dislikes, none are the names of people to whom he is indifferent. The majority of the new members are authors of repute in many fields of literature, though curiously no one is a novelist, and there is no member of the Savage Club. The lightest of them is Mr Augustine Birrell who has perpetrated under the title of "Obituary Dicta" some ponderously humorous essays. The others are historians, philosophers, and pamphleteers.

Of course there have been some disappointments. Lord Rosebery was obviously glad of an excuse to stand aloof though the four vice-presidents of the Liberal Imperialist League accepted office. Others have taken their exclusion more unwillingly. Lord Edmund Fitzmaurice gives his omission from the catalogue as a sufficient reason for retiring from parliamentary life, and Lord Monckswell, who was Under-Secretary for War under the last Liberal Government, follows him into the shades of retirement. Each of these gentlemen is sixty years of age and believes that if office be refused there is no possible career open to him.

The Right Honourable John Burns, President of the Local Government Board, (salary £2000), is perhaps the most interesting of the untied men. The novelty of giving a Labour member high Cabinet rank attracts attention and invites comment. It is true that Henry Broadhurst was an Under Secretary for a few months, twenty years ago, but that is scarcely a precedent for the high promotion of Mr Burns. In "Who's Who" Mr Burns describes his education as "Battersea and at night schools," and still learning. Came into the world with a struggle, struggling now, and prospects of continuing it. He is a strenuous champion of the cause of the unemployed and as fearlessly merciless to the unemployable.

The first appearance of Sir Henry in his new role as Prime Minister was in his reception of a deputation from the unemployed on Wednesday. Of course he had nothing more to say than what was said by Mr Balfour some weeks ago, but John Burns was able to assure the deputation in the silky official style, of which the Right Honourable John has caught the trick with marvellous celerity, that their requirements would be promptly and sympathetically considered.

Yesterday we received the news of the death in Sicily of Mr William Sharp, a well known author of literary biographies and essays on travel and literature. With the announcement came the disclosure of a curious literary secret. For the last dozen years a large number of books on Celtic literature and folk lore have been published as by Miss Fiona Macleod. Who's Who for 1904 even contained a biographical note on this lady with a list of her works both published and forthcoming. Now it is revealed that the talented authoress was an unreal personage as the famous Mrs. Harris, 'Fiona Macleod' being a pseudonym of Mr. William Sharp. Mr. Sharp did so great a mass of literary work that he thought it well to divide his personality and publish some of his most charming volumes under this alias.

The Tashi-Lama of Tibet, who was received in audience by the Prince of Wales a week ago, is no subordinate official but the duly recognised Grand Lama, since the abdication and flight of the Dalai Lama in September of last year. Since he took over the reins of government he has reduced that country to such order that he was able to leave it for a journey of several weeks, and secure an introduction to British civilisation which will probably result in putting an end to the immemorial exclusiveness of the Tibetans.

A MODERN MIRACLE WORKER.

Brittany is rigging with the fame of a certain M. Saltzman, who is credited with powers of healing that would almost appear to belong to the domain of the miraculous. For the past fortnight M. Saltzman has been staying at Huelgoat, where he is credited with having effected more than 200 cures by the mere imposition of hands. Not only have ordinary ailments yielded to his magic touch, but the deaf have been made to hear and the blind to see. The one condition necessary to success is the faith of the afflicted person in M. Saltzman's powers of cure. Stranger still, his influence can be exerted from a distance. A letter addressed to his residence in the Magenta Boulevard, Paris, describing the symptoms has been followed by the restoration to health of the correspondent.

One of the most remarkable cures effected at Huelgoat was that of a miner, who, several months ago, whilst blasting a rock, received a charge of powder full in his face, completely destroying his sight. The poor man heard of the arrival of M. Saltzman at Huelgoat, placed himself under his influence, and in two days recovered his sight sufficiently to find his way about without assistance and to distinguish colours. In another case the subject had a disabled wrist as the result of a fall from a bicycle. M. Saltzman touched the affected limb, and the pain and stiffness vanished as if by magic. Such are the stories that are being told of this modern St. Francis d'Assisi, who, it may be added, to his remarkable curative skill joins a charity and a benevolence that find expression in the pecuniary aid of the poor and unfortunate.

HONGKONG, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 24, 1906.

THE CHINESE OLD YEAR.

Those who live on the borders of the empire of China, and whose fortunes are more or less affected by the Chinese, cannot but be interested in the events which are happening around them. We have, therefore, thought it not out of place to refer briefly to the more salient of these, to which the 31st year of Kuang Hsu, which closes this evening, has given birth. First and foremost we place the movement which issued in the determination to boycott all American goods in order to compel the present dynasty, threw one of these infernal machines at a group of commissioners about to travel from Peking.

Several were wounded and the man was subsequently arrested and summarily executed. No other marked attacks on the government have been made, and nothing special discovered in the movements of the many secret societies who aim at the overthrow of the Tings and the enthronement of the Mings. The renaissance of the West in the days of the English Tudors, introduced the English mind to the masterpieces of art and literature left by the great classical masters. Familiarity with these was as bracing to the mind of scholars as is a cool fresh sea-breeze to-day to the denizens of the smokechoked streets. The renaissance of the Chinese cannot exactly be compared with this, and yet there is a new familiarity with educational ideals and methods which must work startling results. A single article would not exhaust the subject. The thousands of students visiting Japan; the large number of temples which have been transformed into schools; the many new buildings which have been erected; the many uniformed students; the feverish attempt to subject them all to physical as well as mental drill; most of these advances have come into evidence during the year, and are working radical changes which should seriously affect the future of all concerned. Whether the Chinese leaders have the stability and persistence to continue undeterred by failures, and undaunted by any deflecting opposition, which the more conservative or the more restless may offer remains to be seen. It is certain, however, that the 31st year of Kuang Hsu has been characterized in respect of education by a great and solid advance. The sublime self-appreciation of which the Chinese have hitherto been the victims, is being perceptibly crushed and during the year evidences are not wanting that it has been painfully handled. In the van of the attack must be placed the more advanced of the native newspapers, whose editors, whilst they ever insist on China for the Chinese, return to the attack with

energy. They state unpalatable truths without any circumlocution. If the first condition of amendment of life is repentance, and the first condition of repentance is to see the error of one's way, the Chinese cannot any longer offer any excuse for ignorance as to the real state of affairs. Railways have figured conspicuously in the councils of the Chinese during the year. The northern half of the Canton-Peking line has been laid, and the wide and treacherous Yellow River has been spanned—though it is said ineffectually.

Whilst this half has been so far completed that trains are running thereon, the Southern half remains on the shelf, and at present serves only as a source of irritation between the officials and the capitalists of the Canton province.

The innate suspicion of the Cantonese to all enterprises wherein foreigners have any interest assumed an aggressive form that the opposition which the Americans had secured to lay the southern half of the railway was bought back. Chang Chih Tung secured a loan from the British capitalists to enable the Chinese Government to buy out the Americans, and it has been said that even this venture has been severely criticised by Chinese officials still unsafe in the interior. It was at first feared that a further attempt to destroy property in the adjacent provinces would be essayed, but the apprehension proved to be groundless.

This uprising is the only thing of the kind that the historian has to chronicle this year; indeed in many parts of the empire there appears to be a distinct desire on the part of the Chinese to associate with the European, and assimilate the ideas he champions.

Japanese influence in China has reached further afield, and tightened itself.

The Chinese at first appeared to be more or less mesmerised by the splendid achievements of the Japanese, and were inclined to blindly accept them as their own teachers. In many places Buddhists from Japan have tried to obtain a foothold in China with the professed purpose of resuscitating the dying Buddhism of the Empire. This intrusion has, however, been resented even more vigorously than the propaganda of Christianity. Indeed since the absorption of Korea within the boundaries of the empire, for it amounts to little else, there has been a distinct warning against Japanese aggression. Meanwhile thousands of Chinese students flock to Japan, where, in spite of the buffeting of their feathers, they are preparing, as they think, for the renovation of their country.

The first really national review of Chinese troops was arranged and carried out in the autumn. What made the occasion national was the

A FARMER'S FORT CHABROL.

THE commune of Penmarch, on the coast of Brittany, a district inhabited for the most part by fishing folk, has been the scene of exciting events.

A farmer named Le Closch, of the village of St. Pierre, aggrieved at the loss of a law suit with a mason, named Le Pape, fired a gun at the latter, inflicting slight injuries.

Another workman attempted to disarm the farmer, but was stabbed in the back and arm. The farmer then made his way to his home, which he barricaded against the police when they came to arrest him. He further threatened to kill any one approaching within twenty yards of his dwelling, and the gendarmes beat a prudent retreat.

Up to the present Le Closch has held the authorities at bay by his display of armed force.

116

NAVAL FAMILIARITY.

'Chief Petty Officer Jones'

The Admiralty order lately published, directing that henceforth petty officers in the Navy shall be addressed by their full titles, and that there shall be less familiarity than at present exists between them and subordinate lower-deck ratings, is evoking a great deal of satirical comment by the bluejackets. The general feeling on both sides appears to be that the new regulation is a needless and unnecessary measure.

An intelligent leading seaman, in discussion the matter with the Devonport representative of The Standard, pointed out the principal grounds on which the new order is objected to by the men of the Fleet.

"In the first place," said he, "it implies that petty officers are not at present treated with proper respect by their junior ratings.

This is a suggestion which I entirely deny, and which has been generally resented in the service. The petty-officer classes are all drawn from the lower ranks on board, and, although they are an excellent body of men on the whole, yet there are a great many amongst them who cannot break away from the habits of their old surroundings. The result is they continue to address the bluejackets or stokers in the same fashion they did when they too ate, drank, and slept with them.

"But, although I have served several commissions I have never seen a case in which this kind of familiarity is detrimental to duty or discipline. A seaman has heretofore addressed a petty officer as 'Mr.' In future, he is to give him his full rating.

Can you wonder that the bluejacket puts his tongue in his cheek when he accosts his old shipmate as 'First-class Petty Officer

Jones' or 'Chief Petty Officer Thompson'?

So far from such a mouthful enhancing respect, it is carrying the sublime wit into the ridiculous.

"It may be admitted that there are both petty officers and bluejackets in every big warship who lack in sense of the fitness of things so far as their respective positions are concerned. But such a condition of affairs is never going to be checked by Admiralty regulations. On the other hand, one certain effect of the recent order will be to create a sense of class distinction between the petty officers and men which is highly undesirable, tending, as it must do, to destroy esprit de corps.

"Honestly, I believe I voice the bulk of lower-deck opinion, when I say that the petty officers themselves are not particularly pleased at the Admiralty order whilst the men quietly resent it."

E. A. HEWETT,

Superintendent.

MARTIN'S

APOLLO STEEL

PILLS

A French Remedy of Martin's Pills is the best and most reliable of all the pills in the world for the cure of all the diseases of the bowels and stomach, and for the cure of all the

AN UNHEALTHY LIVER OR

STOMACH STURVES YOU.

DOAN'S DINNER PILLS CURE EVERY

LIVER, STOMACH AND BOWEL TROUBLE.

THE greatest danger to the General on the battle-field has to face is the cutting-off of food supplies; it means the starvation of his troops, and the ultimate disaster is the fall of the liver and stomach to change your food into nourishment for the blood, bones and tissues.

This is why liver and stomach trouble is so serious; it means that the system is starving, and the body is slowly starved of its proper nourishment; the blood is poor and lacking in redness, the lips and cheeks become pale, the eyes yellow, the expression haggard. You grow thin and weak, feel heavy and listless. These symptoms are the digestive organs cry for help, and Doan's dinner pills should be used regularly until every sign of the trouble has gone, otherwise you will be in danger of anemia, constipation, chronic indigestion, biliousness, dyspepsia, and congestion of the liver.

Doan's dinner pills are made from natural roots and herbs, and hold the liver, stomach and bowels, restoring a natural action and a healthy digestion of food. This medicine
